

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Provided is a plasma display panel (PDP) including a rear substrate and a front substrate, which are spaced a predetermined distance apart from each other to face each other and between which a plurality of discharge cells are formed. A heating portion is disposed in the rear of the rear substrate to heat the rear substrate and the front substrate.